Steven Hankins

It seems like you're looking for information on the general principles discussed by Steven Hankins. I did come across some relevant resources on general principles in various contexts.

1. General Principles of Law: These are fundamental propositions that underlie a legal system and from which concrete rules or outcomes may be derived. They are essential for the functioning of legal systems and can fill gaps in the law.

2. Curriculum Foundations and Principles: This resource explores the historical, philosophical, psychological, and social contexts of curriculum development. It addresses the curriculum process and issues that influence it, encouraging readers to consider how new thinking impacts curriculum deliberation, development, and implementation.

3. Fundamental Doctrines of Faith: This resource examines the fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith and their historical and theological significance.
